Jimmy the Janitor visits Drayton Valley

Cathy Westman Western Review
Pictured above is Sandy Gilles, a radio station owner from eastern Canada, who invented Jimmy the Janitor to help draw in listeners to an early morning radio program when a competing radio station moved to the same community. Jimmy was so popular he was asked to headline conferences in his community. He's been on television and also has a comedy CD out.

Cathy Westman Western Review
Pictured above is Jimmy the Janitor, Sandy Gilles's alter-ego from Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, who visited the Max Centre in Drayton Valley on May 28. He is shown reading a letter from his mother that was chock full of interesting news from back home, including the antics of his father and the neighbours. With risqué jokes, he had the audience in stitches. See page 29 for stories.

Shakin' in Drayton dance partners revealed

Cathy Weetman Western Review

The Humans Helping Humans Foundation is pleased to announce their premiere fund raising gala, "Shakin' In Drayton Celebrity Dance Contest" and to introduce its lineup of celebrity dancers.

Hack Hamdon, President of Humans Helping Humans, says, "We are so thrilled to introduce this memorable event to the community of Drayton Valley. If you like dancing with the stars, you are definitely going to enjoy watching local Drayton Valley talent strut their stuff to take home our version of the Mirror Ball trophy."

At the end of the evening, there will be awards presented, one for Best Dancer, one for People's Choice and one for the person who raises the most funds.

The event, which will be held at the MacKenzie Conference Centre, Saturday, December 5, 2015 features numerous community personalities: Pat Vos, Gary "Storie" Stevin, Reeve Bart Guyon, Terry Drader, Mayor Glenn McLean, Jeannette Vatter, Floyd Lauer, Cory Nelson and Hack Hamdon. While there are some dancers who have yet to be named, here is a list of their dancing partners: Pat Vos and Nell Hewitt; Mayor Glenn McLean and Yolanda Ledinski; Floyd Lauer and Caitlin Maxwell; Cory Nelson and Chelsea Fuchner; and Hack Hamdon and Karen Hanson. More dance partners will be revealed in future editions of the Western Review.

Those in attendance at the unswelling on June 3 were given a teeny preview of some of the dances the partners will be performing in December when Hamdon and his partner Karen Hanson performed part of a live dance.

Della Currie, Executive Director from Humans Helping Humans added, "Community members can get involved by sponsoring our dancers as they look to generate financial donations for Humans Helping Humans. Corporate donations are also being accepted for event sponsorship."

Tickets will be on sale for this exciting event beginning August 27, 2015; however, dancers will be looking to generate sponsors throughout the summer.

Proceeds from this first-ever event will go toward the purchase of a CT scanner for the Drayton Valley Health Care Centre.

The idea for this unique event was brought up at a meeting last October, and some of the people involved in it have actually been practicing since then.

Once all the pairings are complete, the couples will be practicing their dances in earnest over the next several months.

The Western Review will bring readers updates on a regular basis, including who some of the remaining mystery dancers might be. For more information please contact Humans Helping Humans at 780-241-9640.

Allowing miniature goats as pets

Manila Lulla
Western Review

A young resident, Ahmed Khaled, came forward at the Drayton Valley Town Council meeting on June 3 with a petition to allow miniature goats as pets.

Khaled wanted the current bylaw that categorizes miniature goats as livestock and allow them to be pets within town limits.

"The petition actually has to meet certain, very specific requirements under Municipal Government Act in Alberta; it does not meet those requirements. However, that does not mean the intent of your petition is lost, it may very well prompt a discussion," said Mayor Glenn McLean.

Mayor asked Khaled why miniature goats and asked if he wanted to have one as a pet. Khaled said his mother told him he can have one as long as he gets the current bylaw changed.

Councillors were impressed

A dozen mini-ministers make their marks with environment and parks

Alberta Government

Twelve of Alberta's greenest Grade 5 students are participating in Environment and Parks Minister for the Day program.

"What a wonderful way to begin my new role as Minister by meeting with these exceptional kids and hearing about their concerns, as well as their solutions, to our environmental challenges!"

Sharon Phillips, Minister of Environment and Parks, in addition to discussing their ideas regarding Alberta's environmental future with Minister Phillips at the Capitol, the ministers enjoyed a tour of the Legislature and a nature hike.

The students also experienced water and waste management first hand, as they visited the Upper Waste Water Treatment Plant, and finished the day with an excursion on the river led by River Watch that involved actual water testing.

Minister for the Day is an environmental education program to support the Grade 5 curriculum in Alberta schools. Students are challenged to share their ideas on how Albertans can become better stewards of the environment. Minister for the Day is part of Alberta's Environment Week celebrations that take place this year from May 21 to June 6.

Selected from more than 2,100 applications from 65 schools, these 12 students already represent their communities of Coldwells, Spruce Grove, Inverness, St. Albert, Fort McMurray, Cold Lake, Inverness, Inverness, Morley, Sherwood Park and Stettin.

by Khaled's ambition and encouraged him to go a different way and educate council about miniature goats and why the current bylaw should be changed to have miniature goats as pets.

"I am really impressed by you and I am impressed that you're on challenged you and you met the challenge, so good for you," said coun. Nicole Nadeau.

Khaled had about 198 signatures on his petition.

FUNDING FOR BEEHIVE DECLINED

At the May 13 council meeting, a community event grant application came forward requesting funds for Beehive's fortieth anniversary. Council was unsure if the event was open to public or not and asked administration to bring back it more information.

At the council meeting on June 3, it was determined that the event is open to public, and it costs $75 per person, which includes entry, dinner and entertainment. "I would like to point out some of the events we have funded are fundraisers and are ticketed events, some of them more than $75. All of these events we have granted funds to are community events or in celebration for something within the community," said coun. Debra Bossert supporting the application and arguing for all the work Beehive Support Services Association has done for the community.

Administration recommended declining the application for funding. "There are other events where they have sold tickets, but those are specifically fundraising events. This one in particular is not a fundraising event. It's to pay for the cost of their party," said Director of Protective Services, Tom Thomson.

A motion to grant $600 to Beehive was defeated with coun. Debra Bossert and Mayor Glenn McLean supporting the motion.

BLOCK PARTIES

How can a barbeque fight crime?

Grilling isn't just for fun, it's also key to tackling crime. Throwing a block party is a fun and easy way to help you get to know your neighbours. Research shows that communities have lower crime rates when neighbours know and care about each other. So take a step to building a safer community and hold a block party.

- Involve local businesses and residents.
- Invite people you know and people you don't.
- Make it an event that welcomes families and singles, young and old, newcomers and old-timers.
- Ask your community leaders and police officers to come and mingle.
- Most of all, create an event that feels like the neighbourhood you want to have.

Reach out and grill something!

FCSS will provide up to $250 to help with the purchase of supplies for all approved Block Parties

Attend the Grilled Hot Block Party on June 24-5-7 p.m.

Kinda Kenny performs at MacKenzie Centre

Cathy Weetman
Western Review

If you closed your eyes while listening to Marty Edwards, you'd swear it was Kenny Rogers up front and personal crooning to the audience at the MacKenzie Conference Centre June 2.

For the first segment of this two part concert, Marty Edwards and the Revival paid tribute to the 1960s and 70s with songs by Ronnie Millap, Elvis Presley, The Concorde, The Beach Boys, The Mamas and The Papas, Gary Puckett, The Grassroots and The Doors.

For the second half, Edwards came onstage dressed in a black pants and sweater, a western belt buckle and a purple jacket, and for the next 45 minutes treat the audience to Rogers' popular songs including, Ruby, Reuben James, Coward of the County, Daytime Friends and Night-time Lovers, I Just Dropped In To See What Condition My Condition Was In, Let's Go Out In A Blaze of Gory, The Gambler and Lady, when he presented a married woman in the audience with a beautiful pink rose.

After a rousing standing ovation, Edwards wrapped up the concert with Islands in the Stream.

This Through the Years tour took Edwards and the Revival to Medicine Hat, Trochu, Moose Jaw, St. Gregoire, Saskatchewan, Edmonton, Stettler, Rocky Mountain House, with Drayton Valley as the last stop. He said he was going to be busy planning next year's concert the day after the concert, and hinted that he may be joined by "Dolly Parton" next year.

Concert goers were unable to purchase any of Edwards' CDs because they were sold out after the second stop of the tour, but those wanting to purchase some left their names and phone numbers with Taphorn.

At the end of the concert, music producer Trudy Taphorn announced a Blue Suede Music Festival to take place in Busby on August 23. The festival will pay tribute to the King of Rock and Roll, Elvis Presley.

We're just doing our jobs

I am extremely distressed to watch a news item on television, and later social media, about the Edmonton school bus driver who was fired for kicking a student off a school bus.

Because there are usually two sides to every story, figuratively and literally, I was hoping the whole truth about the incident would come to light eventually.

And it did.

Not only was the student in question physically abusive to another student on the bus, but he also physically assaulted the bus driver with what looked to be a hockey bag. Fortunately, there was a working camera on this driver's bus that captured the entire incident, and the driver was later hired back with an apology. He is now driving a different bus route.

The bus driver was just doing his job - driving the bus, keeping the students safe and letting students off at their respective stops, all while watching the road and the traffic. It's not an easy job to do because I tried it last year for myself, albeit with a very full-sized bus.

As journalists, we try to do our jobs, too, but many times we are prevented from doing them by some well-intentioned but ignorant bystanders, audience members, users or off-duty policemen who don't know that we have our cameras - not for a reason - record history as best we can.

As an example, when the Olympics were being held in Vancouver, a Laxton high school vice-principal was selected to be a tour leader on a stretch of highway near Nanton School. On the chosen day, accompanied by a busload of school students who went to cheer her on, and me to record the event, she emerged from the bus, took the torch and proceeded down the highway. I was already in good position to take her photograph when one of the accompanying security team told me to move out of the way. While I was attempting to explain I was "The Press," the opportunity to capture the vice-principal at his finest moment was gone. I ended up having to chase her down and grab a quick shot. Not the best, thanks to the security team.

On other occasions I have been stopped by others at a Christian dance concert and told no cameras were allowed in the theatre. I told her to talk to the president of the dance club, who had asked me to take photographs for them and the newspaper. I've been told to sit down at a table when I wasn't in the way of anybody.

Most journalists, believe it or not, are shy and self-conscious at the best of times. If we had to work around people like this, we would be out of business.

Fortunately, in all the 40 years that I've been a journalist, I was only injured once, slightly, when a player from the Stony Plain Eagles Intermediate Hockey Team threw his stick over the boards in frustration and it bounced off the top of my head.

If people in an audience wonder why we're standing or sitting where we are with a camera or video recorder in hand, all they have to do is ask, and we'll be more than happy to explain. We are just doing our jobs, and we're really proud not to be disturbed while we're doing it.

When I get to the point where we can't do our jobs, such as the case of the bus driver, something must be done about it or should have been done about the situation before it got that bad. I realize I would have done the same thing if I were that driver, and from the feedback about the incident on Facebook, parents would have done a lot more than just throw the student off the bus.

Please, people, let us do the jobs we are paid to do, whether we're bus drivers, journalists or working jobs in the hospitality sector, and find out what the other side of the story is first before doing anything rash, and please, above all else, show us the respect that we've earned.

Making a debut, of sorts

There is a first time for everything.

This statement has been terribly true in my case, as I have witnessed plenty of firsts since I moved to Drayton Valley. Since this was their first visit to Canada they saw me live my own life for the first time.

They saw me drive for the first time as I picked them up at the airport. Usually it is the other way around because I am always the one who visits them. Therefore, when I am in holiday mode, meaning I refuse to do anything apart from snuffing my face and sleeping. What's not a first is that I am stuffing my face this time as well.

This visit was a different one. I had to cater to their needs, meaning if they wanted something I had to make sure they had it. I had to be the chauffeur, guide and companion. I had to make sure they had everything they wanted on this shopping list.

With my mom, I learned there is no point in cleaning. No matter how much I will ask her to put her feet up and enjoy the weather, she will find work to do around the house.

Manta's Musings

around to this monumental visit.

It was also my first time of being in-charge, of telling them how everything works from the assigned shelf space in the fridge so we don't bother my roommate to we should go here instead of here because I said so. Well, not that demanding, but you get the idea, right?

I also bought clothes for my mom for the first time, because she has never before let me pay for anything. Add shoes to that, too.

In the past week, I have felt like I finally grew up. Not because I can eat cookies for dinner and no one will say anything, but because you look into the mirror after a long day and the person who seems back looks like she is in control of her life. Probably.

I think this trip must have been a shock for my mother, too. Somewhere in her heart she still holds on to that girl in pigtails who got on the school bus and waved at her from the window. She was proud when I did that, but she beamed in a different way when I got into my car and drove to work this morning in my big girl pants, waving at her from the window.

Federal Government Announces Two Calls for Proposals under New Horizons for Seniors Program

OTTAWA - Jim Egliniski, Member of Parliament for Yellowhead, on behalf of the Honourable Alice Wong, Minister of State (Seniors), announced two new calls for proposals under the New Horizons for Seniors Program (NHSP).

The NHSP is a federal grants and contributions program that supports projects that are led or inspired by seniors who make a difference in the lives of others and their communities. The NHSP supports both pan-Canadian and community-based projects. Earlier this year, it was announced that a total of $160,769 was awarded to local organizations in Yellowhead through the NHSP.

The first call for proposals is under the Pan-Canadian component of the program. Pan-Canadian projects funded through the 2015-2016 call for proposals will help to prevent and measurably reduce the rate of social isolation among seniors.

Jim Egliniski
MP - Yellowhead

Successful projects will be part of collaborative efforts to create this measurable change. Each project will be up to three years in duration and funded between $150,000 and $750,000.

The second call for proposals is under the Community-based component of the program. Community-based project funding supports activities that engage seniors and address one or more of the program's five objectives: volunteering, expanding awareness of elder abuse, social participation, and capital assistance. These projects are eligible to receive up to $25,000 in grant funding per year, per organization. The New Horizons for Seniors Program has provided funding to a number of local organizations in Yellowhead for many projects that support seniors in the area. I strongly encourage all eligible recipients to apply for funding through this program," concluded MP Egliniski.

Since 2006, the NHSP has funded nearly 15,000 projects in hundreds of communities across Canada, representing a total investment of $350 million. The deadline for applications under both calls for proposals is July 10th, 2015.

Education funding to be restored

Alberta Government

The Premier and her Cabinet are restoring education funding for the 2015-16 school year - and are also funding enrolment growth - to provide needed resources to support student learning.

"This government firmly believes that Alberta's students deserve the best education we can deliver and, by restoring funding for kindergarten to Grade 12 students, we are taking swift action to making this vision a reality," said Rachel Notley, Minister of Education.

Providing enrolment growth funding for the 2015-16 school year to ensure that every student in Alberta classrooms is funded. About 12,000 additional students are expected in schools this fall.

Restoring funding to previously announced reductions to school and classroom resources, such as transportation, inclusive education, and First Nations, Metis and Inuit, among other support services.

Maintaining funding to cover the two per cent salary increase and one per cent lump sum payment under the previously negotiated Teacher Agreement.

"By funding enrolment growth and restoring funding for transportation, inclusive education, First Nations, Metis and Inuit among other areas, we are helping to ensure that school authorities can make decisions that are in the best interest of the students in their communities," said David Eggen, Minister of Education.

The local year cost to restore this funding is $103 million. School boards require this information as they prepare budgets for the 2015-16 school year which are due to Alberta Education by June 30.

EPAC petition's verification process starts

Mamta Lulla
Western Review

Braceau County has received a petition from some of its citizens that asks to rescind a motion of joint ownership of the theatre located in the heart of Drayton Valley, is owned by both the town and the county.

"From my experience, the number of people that I have contacted, four people out of close to 200 have refused to sign [the petition]," said petitioner Lynn Oberle in an interview recently.

According to the Municipal Government Act, there was a need of at least 10 per cent of the county's citizens to be on board with the petition, which would be more than 700 people.

County staff confirmed that the verification of the validity of the petition is under review.

Total funding from the county towards EPAC is about $851,000, of which the county has already contributed $40,000 in 2011 and $50,000 in 2013. The Town contributed about $651,790 towards EPAC between 2006 and 2013. The amount was for the building purchase, adjacent land purchase, demolition expenses and building permit. The Town committed a further $200,000 in the 2014, bringing the total town investment to about $651,000.

"In my point of view it's mainly to let them know that we are not happy the way they handle most of this stuff," said petitioner supporter Garry Mastré.

Mastré was especially concerned with the liability of the building.

"This is a lot of money to put into something. This is the first building that will have a title and therefore liabilities for the future. To have a title to it and have all this responsibility in the future just doesn't fit right with a lot of people in the county for the amount of people who are going to use this place," he said.

Deputy Reeve Marc Gressler, who signed the ownership agreement, was in favour of the joint ownership of the facility.

"Part of the development of a community is to yes your roads, your water, your infrastructure it's all important within the community. But the secondary thing is to help a community grow and develop and to attract people to come to your community, and those are what people call soft services like the pool, Omplex, sports fields, ski trails in the county, but also arts and culture as well," he said.

He noted that there aren't such facilities in the greater community, which would include both town and the county, and hence he was in support of the theatre.

"Where in this greater community, not only Drayton Valley but the whole of the county, is there somewhere for arts and culture? There isn't anywhere really. So to facilitate and help the community have that kind of facility, this is an ideal scenario to have," said Gressler.

Coun. Kara Westerlund said the decision of joint ownership was for a reason.

"We could have given it as a grant or we decided to go down this road. So, in 10 to 15 years, something different happens with the building we have the agreement in place and because we are half owners of it we can back out or we can sell the building we can recoup those costs," she said.

Westerlund also noted that there is an out clause in the agreement.

"If we decide this isn't working, we can certainly get out," she said.

The Western Review has not seen the joint ownership agreement, and therefore cannot confirm its details.

EPAC board president David Flett said the EPAC joint ownership decision was made over a year ago.

"No one from the few vocal residents that have started the petition has ever spoken to me with any of their concerns. It's unfortunate that they seem to be lacking all of the positive information of this great project," he said.

When Flett was asked about valuing the building, he said since the town purchased the theatre several years ago, and the adjacent lot a few years later, the real estate market has gone up.

"Additionally the EPAC Society has contributed significantly and made many improvements to the facility. The two municipalities were seeking an arrangement of being equally invested in this great community enhancement project," he said.

Flett confirmed the board is self-sustaining and does not require any yearly operational expenses.

Mastré said he was aware of the joint ownership talks that had been ongoing; however, figures were never clear to the public. Westerlund also confirmed that there were many figures thrown out there when the discussions took place.

Mastré said he would have rather seen the county invest the amount in a new building.

"For the amount they are putting into it, it's an old building. It's something that could haunt us in the future. I would rather put in a new building," he said.

When the decision to provide funding to EPAC was made in March, current Reeve Bart Guyon had been elected but not sworn in, and coun. Shirley Mahan was the acting reeve.

"There was nothing pressing that would cause the urgency, so I can only surmise my input was not wanted or needed," said Guyon in an e-mail implying that the decision to give more than $800,000 was rushed.

Back then Mahan had explained there was a timeline to the work that needed to be completed.

"We are actually employing people to work on the EPAC. They only have a certain amount of days to work on it before the fall schedule again. That's why we had to get on this," Mahan had said in March when asked about the urgency.

At the county's annual general meeting many residents questioned county's decision to go into a joint ownership agreement regarding EPAC.

Recent joint council meeting was cancelled

Manda Lulla
Western Review

The Town of Drayton Valley sent a letter to Brazeau County dated May 27 advising that it was not going to be in attendance at the joint council meeting on June 1.

"Please be advised that Drayton Valley Town Council has determined that the scheduled meeting of our councils on June 1, 2015 should be deferred until Brazeau County Council's position on numerous matters is disclosed," stated the town's letter to the county.

The town notified the county that they want to defer the meeting, after which the county cancelled the meeting.

"If they are not going to show up, there's not going to be a meeting," said Reeve Bart Guyon.

Joint Council meetings take place between the Town of Drayton Valley, Brazeau County and the Village of Bevon.

We did send a letter indicating that we were deferring our participation in it. The joint council meeting also involves Village of Bevon. The meeting could have gone on, in our absence," said Mayor Glenn McLean.

The reason the town deferred the meeting is because they wanted to know the county's position on certain cost sharing services such as the RCMP, the proposed bus hub and Early Childhood Development Centre ahead of time.

"[The meeting was] deferred because we didn't get any definition around the items, despite repeated requests. I don't know why you would want to hold a meeting like that. If for no other reason than to attempt to catch the other party off balance. That's gamesmanship. That's not constructive dialogue," said McLean.

In response to the town's letter, the county replied in a letter dated June 1, denying town's cost sharing requests for the three services: RCMP, Early Childhood Development Centre and the bus hub.

The letters that the town sent to the county making cost sharing requests for the three services were dated in February. E-mail conversations dated in April between the town and the county confirmed that the county was interested in having a visioning meeting with the town and the agenda included the three cost sharing items that the town had proposed. This meeting was to be held before June 1, with four possible dates provided by the county - May 25, May 27, May 28 and May 29 - confirmed an e-mail from county staff to a member of the town's staff.

County's response letter dated June 1 states that the visioning meeting request was declined by the town.

"Four possible dates were offered and we were provided a written response that Town Council declined the request, suggesting the items could be discussed at the June [joint council] meeting," stated the response letter from the county to the town.

McLean said the county could have sent replies to the cost-sharing letters for the three services.

"They didn't need to meet with us on the big picture [visioning] meeting in order to provide us answers to proposals. If they wanted to dialogue, perhaps they could have done it in February when the letters were sent," he said.

Guyon said the relationship between the two municipalities doesn't change because they refused to cost-share.

"We are trying to follow the principles and protocols to try to build the relationship, just because we don't fund the things that they [the town] want doesn't change the relationship. A relationship shouldn't be based on a blank chequebook," said Guyon when asked about the relationship with the town.

Town recognized for its work in Nicaragua

Manda Lulla
Western Review

Town of Drayton Valley was recognized by members at the Municipal Partners for Economic Development (MPED) for a project that started in 2011.

The project involved developing an eco-tourism park in Nicaragua. The park now has Drayton Valley Canadian government signage, making Drayton Valley part of Nicaragua's history.

At the government and priorities meeting at the town on June 4, the town received a plaque for outstanding contribution by Drayton Valley.

"Drayton Valley has helped them... Now they feel Drayton Valley is part of their history," said Jacques Carriere, Program Director MPED, FCM International. The program is run by Federation of Canadian Municipalities (FCM).

FALSE ALARM BYLAW
Director of Protective Services Tom Thomson informed council that both the Drayton Valley/Brazeau County Fire Services and the Drayton Valley RCMP have been struggling with too many false calls.

Currently, the fire department invoices for false alarms that does not include the RCMP or other emergency services.

By passing this bylaw, it will now give all emergency services the ability to fine individuals for false alarms and should individuals choose not to pay, allow the opportunity to move it to the court system," stated the agenda at the meeting.

The false alarm bylaw will come to council meeting for first reading.

CURTAINS FOR RCMP
Members who work at the RCMP detachment at night are facing safety concerns. Director of Protective Services Fire Chief Tom Thomson said the current curtains are worn out and they do not let the members see out at night, while the public can see the inside of the detachment. This is leading to some people playing pranks.

He explained there is a need for curtains at the detachment.

Mayor Glenn McLean said these are not enormous amounts but they do add up. He referred to the recent letter sent by the county that denied town's request of cost sharing RCMP services.

"This is one of many costs that Drayton Valley pays to support the RCMP officers, which our neighbours [Brazeau County] do not pay, to the same extent. This another addition that tax payers in Drayton Valley pay which tax payers in Brazeau County, by grace of the provincial government, do not pay. It is not an enormous amount, but these amounts add up overtime," said McLean.

First soccer jamboree held in early June

Western Review

The Drayton Valley and District Soccer Association (DVDSA) held its first ever jamboree for different age groups up to U12. The U8 jamboree was held on June 7, Micro jamboree was held on June 8, U10 jamboree was held on June 9, and U12 jamboree is on June 10.

This is the first year that we have done this. We wanted to (do it) last year and we just did not feel like we were ready," said DVDSA technical director Brad Kelly. "We are doing it for almost every age group. We are getting a feel for how it goes and see if we will do something for the older kids but right now the older kids are helping out."

A jamboree, Kelly explains, consists of different drills.

"The jamboree is basically a whole bunch of different stations set up and the kids rotate through the station until they complete the whole circuit," he said. "It is basically a bunch of different drills in one night. They have all these little drills and they have different coaches so normally it is always the same coach every night. So by having the jamboree, they have different teammates that night and they go through each circuit with a different coach which is also good for the coaches."

The jamboree benefitted not only the younger children but also the older ones.

"We have the older kids come in to help us so they feel that they are important that they help the younger kids. It makes them feel complete the whole circuit," he said. "It is basically a bunch of different drills in one night. They have all these little drills and they have different coaches so normally it is always the same coach every night. So by having the jamboree, they have different teammates that night and they go going to want to help once they get older and they are going to look forward to helping out, like the older kids did for them."

Although Kelly did not get the chance to talk to a parent to ask for their opinions about the jamboree, he said it looked like parents liked it. "I was going to ask them but they were all over the field following their children and watching the games, so I did not get any feedback from the parents. We usually do a survey at the end of the year so it is definitely going to be on there," Kelly said. "But the coaches, who were also parents, seem to really like it. I do not know what the parents thought, but everyone seems to be smiling (and) the parents were not in a big hurry to leave, so that is usually a good indication that they were happy."

Depending on the feedback at the end of the year, Kelly said the association may be looking forward to holding more jamborees in the next season. "Our season is so short. It is really hard to try and do more than once a year, but we will see what the feedback is once we do a survey at the end and see what the parents or everybody thinks. Maybe it is something they want to see more of," he said.

Justin Kinorden Western Review

The Drayton Valley and District Soccer Association held its first jamboree for different age groups including minor and U8 to U12 from June 7 to 10. Children were able to rotate through different stations and complete a variety of drills.

Sports

Organized sport helps Canadian children maximize their potential

(NC) The benefit of physical activity to children is undeniable. From improved health and wellbeing to increased focus in school, sport has the power to change lives. Yet one in three Canadian families can't afford to enroll their children in organized sport. The importance of sport goes beyond the obvious physical gains. Organized sport helps Canadian youth become more independent while developing key life skills such as leadership, discipline, and confidence.

Giving every Canadian child the opportunity to participate in sport is important to the development of our future generation. That's why Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities and its 1,900 Community Partners across Canada are helping to close this gap. This year Jumpstart celebrates its 10th anniversary of providing kids from financially disadvantaged families the opportunity to get involved in an organized sport or physical activity of their choice by covering costs associated with registration, equipment and transportation.

The charity continues to grow. Last year Jumpstart gave 190,000 kids the opportunity to play and this fall, will reach its one millionth child helped. That's one million kids spanning virtually every community across Canada who have been given the chance to develop the confidence, discipline, leadership and teamwork skills that come with participation in organized sport, and Jumpstart intends to keep the momentum going.

"Providing one million kids with access to over 76 different sports over ten years is an incredible milestone for Jumpstart and we do it because we believe sport means something to a child's development," says Landon French, Executive Director, Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities. "We believe that every kid deserves an equal opportunity to play, learn and grow, and we're looking forward to helping a million more kids in the years to come."

This June, you can help kids in your community get in the game by supporting Jumpstart's Red Ball campaign at any Canadian Tire store. A $2 donation in exchange for your own Jumpstart Red Ball, will give the gift of play to a deserving kid. One hundred per cent of customer donations help children in the local community. If you know a kid who wants to play but is unable to because of costs, call 1-844-YES-PLAY or visit jumpstart.canadantire.ca

Pembina Oilmen's Club celebrates 50 years

Western Review

Former director of the Pembina Oilmen's Club, Bruce Clemmer, said the 50th anniversary celebration of the club was a success. The club held its celebrations including a golf tournament from May 29 to 31 at the Drayton Valley Golf Club. Hundreds of golfers from all over Canada and the United States came to Drayton Valley to join in on the festivities.

"Overall, this was the biggest number that we have ever seen (There were) 256 golfers, which is a little bit more than we want because it went a little longer, but it was pretty beneficial," said Clemmer. "Guys came to this tournament from all over. There were guys that used to live in Drayton Valley that moved to the United States and came back. There were a couple of guys from Texas. A lot of them (were) from Calgary, Grande Prairie, you name it."

One of the prizes given away to golfers was a gift certificate that they can use in local businesses. "Some pretty good prizes were handed out. Out of eight golfers at each 9-hole, five of those golfers were given a gift certificate that they could use in the town of Drayton Valley," Clemmer said. "We marked it in these gift certificates they could go from anywhere to Home Hardware to Plaid's. A lot of that money stays in the town of Drayton Valley and that is good to support our local people."

Jay Linquist, who has been coming out to the club's golf tournaments since 2002, came out on top and bagged the championship. "Jay Linquist is a very quiet guy but probably one of the better golfers that Drayton Valley has ever seen," said Clemmer. "He shoots extraordinary rounds of golf. There are other five-time winners but now he broke the record (by becoming) the first six-timer champion."

Aside from the golf tournament, the club also paid tribute to former directors of the club.

"It is a tribute especially to the gentlemen who are the directors and all of the people that have helped donate to the cause of the club is pretty gratifying. We got a large round of applause Saturday night for the people," Clemmer said. "One of the highlights was being able to bring back a bunch of the older fellows. It was very unfortunate that four other directors were not able to make it. Two of them were hospitalized and the other two did not make it because of the distance that they had to travel."

Clemmer said he felt proud to be a part of a group that gives back to the community. "We were able to have a good time and then be able to take some of the sponsor money that was left-over and put it into a fund to help the community," he said. "There were lots of groups that had a hard time surviving and we are pretty fortunate to be able to help them out with the donation of $500, or $1000, or a couple of thousands, so what we did to us felt good that we were able to help keep those clubs and organizations going on here."

Registrations now open for RVP summer drama camp

Western Review

River Valley Players are putting on a summer drama camp for youth in Grades 6 to 9 from July 20 to 24 at Frank Macdonald High School drama room. The camp will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Youth with different levels of acting skills are encouraged to participate in the summer drama camp.

"It is for beginners. It is (also) for people who have been doing it as long as they remember. It is for anybody," said camp facilitator Amy Wright. Wright has been acting since she was in elementary school and has recently finished her fourth year in Augustana University College in Camrose as a theatre major.

Camp participants will learn a variety of acting techniques from different facilitators.

"We were very fortunate to have some wonderful students in our community that have been studying theatre at university, so they have come home and this is a good opportunity for them to kind of put their skills into action and pass on their knowledge," said River Valley Player secretary, Allie Spicer-Ries.

Vocal techniques and the importance of costumes are just some of the things camp facilitators will be teaching the youth.

"We have a lot of different techniques that we have learned throughout the years that we want to pass on to the kids," Wright said. "It will be the importance of costume, the importance of light and sound, and the importance of vocal techniques. We are going to teach them how to play and be free and then we will have our day of improv where they (will) learn how to act on the fly and come up with things without any rehearsal."

The summer camp, Wright said, is a great opportunity for children who may want to learn more about drama.

"We are looking for people to discover drama because I know while it is offered in some schools, it is not always available for kids who are wanting to take it. We are hoping to open that world up to more people so that they can discover this amazing gift that drama can bring them and how fun theatre can be or how fun it can be to express themselves," she said.

"We are hoping to get more people involved with the arts, more involved with themselves, and open up a more creative side of them that they might not have been able to explore before."

The camp costs $50 for the week and camp participants are expected to bring their own lunch. Anyone interested can register to the camp by telephoning (780) 514-9182, e-mailing alliespicerries@hotmail.com, or by leaving a message in River Valley Players Facebook page. Deadline for registrations is on July 13.

"If kids are looking to register, (do) come with an open mind and with no preconceived notion and no insecurities," Wright said. "If they are shy, if they are uncomfortable, or if they have not really found a place in other extra-curricular activities, I feel like this is a really good place to come together and really just play in a safe environment."

Asking for money on the phone is usually a scam

News from Drayton Valley RCMP detachment

Western Review

Drayton Valley RCMP members were advised of the latest scam where someone phoning and claiming to be from Revenue Canada is asking for money.

They claim that you owe them money and should you not comply, the police will come after you.

"They ask you to go their store, load up a prepaid card and send that to them, and if you don't comply the RCMP will come and arrest you," said Sgt. Chris Delisle.

Delisle said neither Revenue Canada nor the RCMP work like that.

Someone from Drayton Valley reported the fraud to the members at the local detachment on June 4 when they also lost some money to the scam.

"If you received a call saying you need to pay something over the phone, it's probably fraud. This is not how Canada Revenue works anyway. And any threats that police will come after you if you don't comply is not true, so do not fall for that," said Delisle.

BREAKING INTO VEHICLES

On May 27, a truck on 46 St was broken into in Drayton Valley and some tools from the vehicle were stolen.

Another complaint on May 29 at 10:40 a.m. was from 55A St. in Drayton Valley when a truck was broken into and a wallet was stolen.

On May 31, RCMP received a complaint around 1 p.m. that a truck was broken into on RR 71 and a tire was stolen.

On May 30, a vehicle was attempted to be broken into overnight on 59 Ave. They were unsuccessful and there was damage in the outside of the vehicle.

Another report came in on May 29 around 6:50 p.m. when two males wearing dark clothing in the Omniplex parking lot were going car-to-car trying the car handles. Nothing was stolen but Sgt. Delisle wanted to take the opportunity to inform the public to always lock their doors.

STOLEN

An ATV was stolen on June 1 on RR 70. The ATV is yellow in colour and was possibly stolen during the day when no one was home.

On May 30, the RCMP received a call at night. Someone had parked their car at the Power Centre Blvd. parking lot at 6:45 a.m. and when they came back around 10:30 p.m. the Ford vehicle was gone.

Public is asked to contact the police with any information in the two cases.

CABLE THEFT

On June 2 the RCMP members received a call from a communications company their cable was stolen around 1WP 505. The repairs in the damage would cost them $3,000.

Sgt. Chris Delisle confirmed the theft had occurred three or four times a couple months ago in the same area. The police are asking the public to keep their eyes open and report any suspicious activity.

Local business owner received Golden Anchor Award

A local business owner received an award for her dedication and passion to her chosen field of work.

Janice Belyea, owner of a Cruise Holidays travel agency in Drayton Valley, received the 2015 Golden Anchor Award on April 25.

Belyea said being given the award caught her by surprise. "I was shocked and surprised," she said.

She started her business in town about five years ago.

"It is probably about five and a half years ago that I became an owner of a franchise," Belyea said. "It has been a great five years and it is a great company. They specialize in cruises and they are big on customer service and that is what they instilled on us from the very beginning." Her interest in travel pushed her to start a business that helps others plan theirs.

"I love travel and learning about other countries and cultures," she said. "It is such a big world out there. It is interesting to see all the history and expand more on the world. I have done a couple of cruises. I have been to Europe, probably my favourite is the Greek Isles and of course, the Caribbean."

Providing great customer service to her clients is what Belyea focuses on.

"The great customer service that we give and treating our clients as if they are good friends and their vacation is a very big expenditure usually, so it is very important to them, so you have to treat it with great care and make sure that you do your best for them," she said.

Having won the award, Belyea is now entitled to use a new logo for her business.

"I got a new logo that I can put on my website. It is called the Golden Anchor Agency," she said. "It signifies that I take care of my customer and the trust they bestow in me."

Belyea encourages anyone who might be interested in planning a cruise vacation to contact her at anytime.

"I think we as Canadians because we are not close to ports, it is a little bit of a distance but if you have not cruised, it really is a fantastic way to travel. Most people get hooked," she said. "I am home-based. I have flexible hours so that is one thing that is good for clients especially if they are working during the day."

Anyone interested can contact Belyea at (780) 514-9377 or at www.jbelyea.cruiseholidays.com.

Jimmy the Janitor visits the Max Centre

By Cathy Weetman
Western Review

Cape Breton's own Jimmy the Janitor made an appearance at the Max Centre on May 28 and left the audience in stitches with his folksy tales of home life as sent to him by his mother.

He spoke about being divorced from his first wife, life with his new girlfriend

Tracie and read letters from his mother back home in Cape Breton about the goings on in his home town.

His views on sports were hilarious. As an example, Jimmy said one sport he thinks he could win is Luge, where all you have to do is lie on a sled and go down a run.

"You could be dead and win," said Jimmy. He added that in the category of Stupid Sports is the Olympic event called the Blarhlon, where participants have to ski and shoot at a target. "Why doesn't the person in second place just grab his rifle and shoot the person ahead of him? It gives a whole new meaning to the phrase, 'the agony of defeat,'" he joked.

Jimmy also commented about buying food in Costco, where "The people going there look like squirrels getting ready for winter, pushing shopping carts the size of half-ton trucks." However, he also admitted his favourite food from Costco is chicken pot pie.

On the topic of flying, especially on the east coast, Jimmy said he's convinced the oxygen masks in the smaller airplanes there aren't to help people breathe; they're there to muffle the sound of people's screams.

And it doesn't matter that the stewardesses are so blasé about pointing out the exits; the plane will rip open anyway and the people will be sucked out.

Jimmy finished his visit to Drayton Valley with a song called "Side by Side," a hilarious piece about removing body parts before bedtime such as eyes and teeth and artificial legs.

Summer travel packing essentials

(NC) With kids out of school and warmer weather upon us, the summer months are a natural time for vacation. Whether embarking on an exotic trip or heading to the cottage for some much needed rest and relaxation, be sure to pack the following essentials so you're home away from home has everything you need.

1. Packing to fit in a carry-on? Remember, there are limits to how much liquid you can have on board. Be sure to check with your airline in advance for restrictions. Then, head to your local pharmacy to find travel sized versions of your favourite products.

2. The camera will be out in full force to capture the fun and adventure of your travels. To maintain a healthy and beautiful smile, try oral care products like the Arm & Hammer Spinbrush Truly Radiant Manual Toothbrush with elongated bristles to clean hard to reach places. Look for a toothbrush with a rotating head to achieve an extra deep clean getting rid of plaque and tartar buildup. Pack a lightweight toothbrush, and don't forget toothpaste and floss in your travel bag, and you'll be set for clean teeth.

3. Wherever you decide to go in your travels, make sure you're prepared for the elements. Pack sunscreen to protect against harmful UV rays, and a spray to avoid nasty bites. Plus, make sure your prescriptions are filled if you're heading overseas.

By day, he's the manager and co-owner of some 80 radio stations in eastern Canada - by night he's a janitor.

But not just any janitor - He's Jimmy the Janitor, a divorcee with a new girlfriend named Tracie, and two parents who continue to supply him with all kinds of tantalizing information about the folks back home in.

As Sandy McGillis (Jimmy's alter-ego) explains it, about 28 years ago, when he was running four of nine radio stations owned by himself and a group of partners, a competing radio station opened up in Moncton. McGillis and partners decided at the time they needed a new radio persona to draw in listeners and McGillis suggested Jimmy the Janitor, who grew up in Cape Breton. So Jimmy the Janitor showed up at the radio station one morning, talked about his trials and tribulations and became an instant hit.

"We had great reaction to Jimmy. We had requests for Jimmy to show up at conferences. The first version had Jimmy in coveralls and rubber boots. He's a little more refined now than he was back in the late 1980s," said McGillis. Gillis added he chose a Cape Breton accent because it's easiest to understand.

"We've had 11 comedy albums and Jimmy's appeared on CBC Television and Radio, CTV Television and the Comedy Network. We do between 50 and 70 shows a year with two 40 to 45 minute segments separated by an intermission. I usually tour for just one week a month. We did nine shows out here, including a great show in Vegreville," said Gillis.

"I was the oldest of 10 children in the family. I grew up in Great Britain with lots of humour and lots of music. Dad was a fiddle player and Mom was a step-dancer, so there were lots of opportunities to show off. We have a huge family in various parts of the world."

These days, Gillis is not as busy in the broadcast industry as he once was. He started a company G O Radio (Gillis Organization) and his dulcet voice can be heard in car dealership commercials around Cape Breton.

52nd Annual Air Cadet Review held

Story submitted

(On May 10, the local 733 Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron of Drayton valley held its 52nd Annual Cadet Review at St Anthony School. The 15 cadets of the squadron paraded in front of friends and family, displaying their crisp uniform and sharp drill. Several of the cadets were awarded for achievements such as Aviation studies, Marksmanship and volunteering. The cadets were recognized for completing their mandatory studies of the past training year and advanced to the next training level for next year.

We had a very special guest this year - Retired Master Warrant Officer Jim Hooey, who joined us as Reviewing Officer to inspect our cadets in Parade and preside over the proceedings. Master Warrant Officer Hooey was a member of the Canadian Air Force for more than 30 years, retiring in 1995. It was a great honour to have him at our ACR as we were able to witness his presentation. Hooey, as well as the highest promotion an air cadet can earn in their cadet career, Warrant Officer First Class.

The prestigious Royal Canadian Legion Cadet Medal of Excellence was awarded to 16-year-old Mikayla Hunt in recognition of her outstanding performance and commitment to the purposes and objectives of the Cadet organization. This medal was presented by Paul Spurrell of the Legion Branch

Now that another year has concluded, we would like to acknowledge the following: All Choice Rentals for the use of their shop for our bottle drives; Carillon for the use of their shop for Ground School; Pile Base for the use of their shop for Marksmanship; Floyd Lauer for the use of his shop for storage of our Supply when our usual space flooded; our sponsor, the Legion Branch #269 for their support over the years; and all the staff, parent committee, parents and everyone else who helped with the squadron this year.

We are already looking forward to next year - planning and organizing our training and extra activities for fundraising.

events to prepare for another great year. Part of the planning is looking for more volunteers to help our cadets receive the most of this great program! If you, or someone you know, would be willing to volunteer with our squadron, please contact our Commanding Officer, Gerry Landers at 780-542-0733.

We are also recruiting new cadets, youth between the ages of 12 and 19 are welcome to join. If you know of a youth who is interested in aviation, marksmanship and the outdoors, call 780-542-0733 for more information.

Watch for us at events around town this summer, and we'll see you all next September!

ELDORADO CHOIR

Congratulations to the Eldorado Grade 2 and 2/3 choirs for an exceptional performance at the Alberta Provincial Music Festival in the choral speech category. They received the highest Standard of Distinction for their performance. Way to go!

AURORA SCHOOL BAKE SALE

Justine Kinsden Western Review
Aurora School Grade 6 students held a bake sale on June 3 to raise funds for the Stollery Children's Hospital Foundation. They raised a total of $1052.

EVERGREEN

It's the second week of June already and our students are working hard to finish up the year's requirements. Grade six students in particular are focused on their Provincial Achievement tests which they will finish up 22). In June, it seems our learning is occurring not only outside our classroom, but outside the school. Have you seen our new playground? Dwan Smith and the parent council have been planning for almost a year to ensure we have fun, safe equipment to keep us busy at recesses. Not only did our Evergreen parents step up with the install, but we had workers from Newforce Energy, Vermilion Energy and IEC there as well. We appreciate how our community has stepped up!

Yeah! All you cowboys and cowgirls, be prepared to draw Western this Friday for Western Day.

Thank you to Judy Baranuk from Eldorado School for organizing our track and field day today, June 9th. Ms. Baranuk was very busy as she also organized grade five camp this year! Our happy campers appreciate all your hard work.

More appreciation and food! JPK and TJP were able to enjoy the pizza lunches donated by Panago pizza as the winning classes for the most money collected during our spellitions.

Kindergarten students also visited the hospital this week ONLY for a tour, though they were grateful for the nice weather as they were able to walk. Also, only for a TOUR, the grade two crew visited the RCMP station on June 3rd.

We welcome Carol Sene who will be doing farm safety presentations June 9, 10 and 12. The presentations, while being informative, are also a popular hit with the kids. She has a different lesson for each grade level and we are excited to have her back.

Wednesday, June 17, our grade three are off to Telus World of Science. Thursday, June 18, our grade two crew are off to the Tri-Lakes Center in Spruce Grove.

ST. ANTHONY

Thank you to all who participated in, donated to and helped supervise the grade 7/8 wake-a-thon. It was a great success. Students raised over $2,800.00. Half the money will go to the Awasa school in Ghana, Africa and half will help offset the costs of the grade 7 & 8 retreats. A special thank you to Miss Makub, Mr. Naugle and Mrs. Hanson for helping Mrs. Molzan with supervision for the night and for leading the students in activities. Thanks as well to Mr. McIsaac, Mrs. Cote, Miss Senio, Mrs. Lernermeier & Mrs. Becker who helped out with food preparation and supervision at various times. We would also like to acknowledge Father Paul Menash who joined us for prayer and led us in grace at the beginning of our night. Thank you grade 11 students, Marie Thelich, Miranda Benoit, Kenedi Kerkhoff, and Alanna Anclair who helped out with supervision.

P.A.T.s are June 17th English - Part B 18th Math 19th Science & 22nd Social. Shave to Save 2015 is quickly approaching. We need to raise $10,000.00 for Mrs. Lernermeier to shave her long locks! All donations of $15.00 or more are tax deductible. Donations can be made online @ <http://albertacancer.ca/shave2save2015>. We sincerely hope we can count on your support to "Pull Together" by helping those in our community.

Important reminders: Messages for students, need to arrive at the main office before 12:30. Office hours are 8:00-4:00. Parents please make sure you call the office or email: kerrrie.lernermeier@stanthonic.ab.ca if your child will be late or absent.

Immunize your child against drowning

News Canada

[NC] The World Health Organization (WHO) has released its first report dedicated exclusively to drowning, titled Global Report on Drowning: Preventing a Leading Killer. Among the findings, drowning is one of the 10 leading causes of death for children and young people in every region of the world. In Canada, it's the second leading cause of preventable death for children under the age of 10.

Globally, an estimated 372,000 people drown each year in what the WHO describes as a serious but neglected public health threat. While the impact from drowning is significant compared to other public health challenges, there are no broad, organized global strategies for prevention.

Drowning is preventable

The report calls for both global and local communities to work together to introduce strategies aimed at promoting water safety and drowning prevention.

The Lifesaving Society, an organization recognized by the WHO as the leader in drowning prevention and research in Canada, actively participates in many of the recommendations identified in the report. These include data collection and research; promoting prevention strategies such as four-sided fencing; and drowning prevention education programs.

Teaching school-age children basic swimming, water safety and safe rescue skills is one of the Ten Actions to Prevent Drowning specifically identified by the report. If you would like to take steps for the safety of your family, find out about Swim to Survive, a school-based program by the Lifesaving Society that teaches children three critical skills needed to survive an unexpected fall into water.

"Teaching school-aged children survival swimming skills can have a lifelong immunization effect against drowning," says Barbara Byers, the public education director for the society. "It's one of the most effective tools we have to help prevent drowning."

The program is available across Canada, and similar programs are being piloted in countries like Bangladesh where drowning rates are very high, especially among children.

More information about water safety is available at www.lifesavingsociety.com.

In Memoriam

In Loving Memory
Christopher Adam Yulaw
(81 Town)
Sept. 04, 1982 - June 08, 2004
If tears could build a stairway
And memories were a lane
We would walk right up to heaven
And bring you home again
Since you'll never be forgotten
We pledged to you that day
A beautiful place within our hearts
Is where you'll always stay
It's no hard to believe that 10 yrs have passed
Since that terrible day
Always in our hearts
Love You Always

Here's How It Works:

Supoku puzzles are formatted as a 10x10 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a supoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fit each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle.
